From Boston comes a good story about the late millionsire, Atexander Mitchell, of Milwaukee. During the great panio of 1857 there was a run on Mitchell's bank, and in the height of the excitement an old chap covered with mud and carrying a pair of saddle-bags came into the bank. Being unable to get up to the counter on account of the crowd he cried out: "Aleck mon, I heard ye had a roon on yer bank, and so I bring ye all I have, laddie. Here it is—$2,000 in good gold!" As far as I can over see or learn, the reply for the entire state of Nebraska is, high license law does not essentially reduce rum making or drinking; will not be obeyed by liquor men in any section which they can break or evade. The temperance spirit does not increase. There is a growing disposition to protect the saloon and give it every other sort of freedom, if it will only pay the tex reg-nlarly. The $1,000 becomes unconscious-

VIEWS FROM THE VATICAN

MESSAGE FROM THE POPE TO THE AMERICAN FAITHFUL.

America the Hope of the World-Th Mission of Roman Catholic Citizons and the Labor Question-Archbishop Corrigan Voices Rome's Views on Land Own ership and Infallibility. St. Paul, Minn., May 17.—Bishop Ireland in his address to his audience Sunday night, said: The holy father takes a deep interest in America. He has an amazing amount of in formation in regard to American affairs. He said: "The future is in the great republic of America, and its influence is rupidly spreading America, and its Intuotopes 5 rapidly, 5 teaming over the whole world. It is the great mission of American Catholics to set examples of the best and purest type of citizen. The American Catholics should lovedeeply their country, and should never cease to work for its welfare."

The pope expressed his anxiety at the prevention of the property of the The pope expressed his anxiety at the preva-lence of drunkenness among Catholies in some countries and said that it had proved a stumbling block to many who would have been led into the church. He blessed the temperance move-ment, and the bishop promised to devote him-self to the cause with greater energy than ever. In regard to the great national uni-versity his heliness had said that what was most needed for the furtherance of the church most needed for the furtherancoof the church in America was intellectual superiority of Catholics. They must domonstrate that the shareh is the nest of Jeanning and education church is the nest of learning and education.

In regard to Knights of Labor the hely father has not approved of them, but has not condemned them. The church says that labor has rights, and has the privilege to organize for its protection. The knights so far have done nothing officially worthy of condomation, but they must not infringe on the freedom of labor. They must not deny to others, not members of their order, the right to work.

ROME'S POSITION DEFINED.

Archbishop Corrigan's Answer to Some of McGlynn's Views.

New York, May 17,—Archbishop Corrigan, in an address delivered Monday on the occasion of his canonical visitation to the Church of the Sacred Heart, in West Fifty-first streat, made declarations which were interpreted as roples to recent arguments by Dr. McGlynn, though he mentioned no name. The nychoishop said two errors were widely prevalent at the present time. The first was the idea that private ownership of land was imjust. This was contrary both to philosophy and common sense and to the teachings of the and common sense and to the teatenings of the church. Those who claimed that land, like sunshine and air, being God's gift, was equally the property of all, overlooked the difference between these things, namely: That sun and air can not be reduced to private possession, as land can. He cited the condition of the Indians as showing the result of common own-ership in land. He also said the idea of com-mon right to the benefits of land was contrary to papal decree and to the ordinances of God.

The second error was that the pope had the right to command and to be obeyed only in mat-ters of faith and morals, and when speading excathedra as the infallible head of the church. This idea, said the archhishop, had been decreed false by the vatican, who had ordered that "if any one should say that the pope has a right to command in matters of fatth and morals and not in discipline, lot him be anathoma." The pope, however, does not invertere in matters of politics unless the government interferes in matters of conscience, and has warned all bishops and archibishops that they must be obedient to the government under which they are.

TORONTO IN TROUBLE

THE PROBABILITY OF RIOT AND BLOODSHED.

Every Indication That O'Brien's Visit Will End in a "Ruction" in Which Broken Heads Will Be the Principal Feature-A Letter from Lansdowne-A Suggest ive Incident in Quebec.

TORONTO, May 17.—The impression ereated by Saturday's mass-meeting is one of abso-late conviction that a riot will follow if Mr. O'Brien insists on speaking. Every hall is closed to him and an open air meeting is the only alternative between failure here and the only internative between Mr. O'Brien was expected to arrive here by the So'clock a. m. train Monday, but he did not come. His abtrain Monday, but he did not come. His de-sence was partly due to the dispatches be-tween him and the committee of the Nutional league crossing each other. He had tele-graphed President J. A. Mulligan to say he would leave Montreal on Sunday night if he so desired. The answer was: "Come at once." Lord Lansdowne is still here, the guest of the Bautenant governor of Ontario. Mayor Howland has expressed his official inability to prevent a riot in view of the strong preju-dice which has been wrought to a high pitch by Professor Goldwin Smith's anti-National-

Any other view than this would place the league here in a false position with the courts, "We do not desire any breach of the peace," he said, "If it comes it will not be from us; but that it will come is a foregone conclusion. Whother Mr. O'Brien will be heard or not the attenuat will be made. will be heard or not the attempt will be made.
We are quite ready to believe that it is Lord Lausdowne's wish that he should be heard Lausdownes wist and a should be heardy but the situation is boyond his personal influ-ence to stop a severe rich when it once begins. make an address at the hotel before a few members, but that would be a backdown ubterly incompatible with our position. The large will raily around O'Brien to a man. I can scarcely see the end of it, but I fear it will be a bloody one. Many citizens who are opposed to the league believe Mr. O'Brien should be protected by the whole military force if necessary, but as that is composed, three out of five of the men belong to the Deanwa coder, or to the Sons of England, and Drange order, or to the Sons of England, and their ideas of protection will scarcely be real-President Mulligan, of the league said:

"Lord Lausdowne's alloged desire to give Mr. O'Brien a fuir show comes too late in the day. The arrangements to hold the meeting in St. were completed last Wodnesday between the league committee and Alderman Irwin, chairleague committee and American Traval daman of the corporation property committee.
Thursday Alderman Irwin accompanied Lord Lansdowns to the island opposite the city.
That some evening he induced the council to break the engagement to which their committee was pledged. If Lord Lansdowne had been desireds of giving Mr. O'Brien fair play why did he not say as much then, and all this anxiety might have been avoided. The present excitement, however, has had the effect of rallying the Trish element in this town as it has me. The meeting will take place at any cost."

He says his reception when he first came and these resolutions afford a striking proof of the loyalty of To-ronto to her majesty and adds that he trusts that he may regard the expressions con-tained in the resolutions as an indication that in the opinion of the people of Toronto he has done nothing to forfeit their respect or justify the withdrawal of their good will. He conthat those who have sought, for political purposes, to safe up strike between me and the tenness on a part of my frish estates, should have been for a time successful. I desire sincerely that the dafferonces which have thus arisen may not prove to be permanent, and that the kind relations which un-til recently existed between these tenants and myself may ere long be completely restored.

He was tromondously cheered when he mose to speak, and uproariously ap-planded as he sat down. His remarks caused much surprise, and to the majority of those present, great satisfaction. He was especially severe in his condomnation of the governmont's policy of coercion, which he said was wholly without excuse, and excessively unjust, and could have no other offect than the matural one of emsperating the Irish people.

O'Brien Leaves Montreal.

MONTREAL May 17,—William O'Brien and Dennis Kilbride left Monday night for Toronto. Mr. O'Brien said that he believed there was a good deal of feeling, but any number of such meetings as that of Saturday would not prevent him from filling engagements. He will speak at Ottawa Thursday ovening and at Kingston on Friday evening, and then visit New York, Boston, and Philadelphia. He has received urgent call from all parts of the union to deliver addresses, but has declined all with the exception of the above as he has received an urgent message from freihad that affairs are in a most critical condition, and he desires to get back as soon . Agitation in the Other Colonies. London, May 17.—The visit of Mr. O'Brien to Canada for the purpose of agitation is the beginning of a general appeal to the colonies on behalf of Ireland. The Parnellites have taken steps to organize a wholesale descent upon the British colonies for the purpose of appealing to the people to hold meetings, pass resolutions and in other ways signify their abhorrence of the governments policy of coercion; and at as early a date as possible well-known conters will be sent to the more populous of the English dependencies to begin the work,

BILL NYE'S ANSWER.

AN EAGER CORRESPONDENT WHO DEARLY LOVES A MAID.

Mr. Panghorn L. Anglous About His Penmanship-A Fanciful but Not Flippont Reply, Full of Intenso and Free Gratis Advice. The following answers to correspondents are submitted this week, in order that the vinter committee on correspondence may be discharged. Rodney L. Pangborn, of Tuscon, A. T., writes as follows:

"I dearly love a young lady here who a year ago led me to believe that she was not displeased with me. "I know that she is my superior in many ways, as her folks keep a girl, whereas my mother does her own work; but need that cause us to drift apart? "I think that where two fond hearts throb in younison, and where a young person of my sex earnestly and devotedly loves a young person of a diametrically different sex, and he desires her to be his'n and would not mind being her'n, ought our difference in station to make any difference in our destiny? "What do you think of my penmanship?"

It is difficult to answer you, Rodney, without being flippant, but I know by the tome of your letter that you do not feel dippart and you would resent it if I were to treat your Socially we are always at war, Redney. If your mother had kept a girl your own father might have kicked you into a shapeless mass, cursed you and disinherited you for loving a young thing whose mother did not keep a girl, or you might have fallen in love with one whose parents kept two girls. ONCE THERE WAS A MAN.

query in that way, so I will try to talk to you the same as I would discuss the matter if it

I once knew a young man who was socially blest in every way, but he loved above his station just as you have done and his whole life was embittered. In an evil hour he fell madly, passionately in love with a girl whose parents were haughty and not only kept an all around girl to do work in the house, but hired a man to come and toy with the wood pile and grease the buckboard and squirt vater on the lawn. He saw that he must in some way bridge this social chasm or lose his ideal, and so he entered the list to compete for a prize of $500 offered by a nurse proud plug tobacco establishment for the largest number of words to be made from the sentence:

"Chew Ruminator's Succulent Plug Tobacco and take no other!" He made over 1,000 words from this sen-tence and accompanied them with over 1,000 tin tags from Ruminator's celebrated tobacco but a rival with five more words and one more tin tag than he had walked away with the $500, and this young man is now striving to but tout his teaming brains against a pad-ded cell in one of the cosiest lunatic asylums of which our own fair land can boast.

So I would say to you, Rodney, as I would say to any other man who had come to me to lean on me and sob against me and ask me for sid and encouragement, do not seek to bridge over this great social chasm at one You might injure yourself. I know an other case where a young man named Ran-dall, whose parents were plain people, his father having been in the well digging and pump industry, aspired to the hand of a young woman whose hands had never yet been immersod in dishwater.

Her parents also maintained a cottage organ and a Brewster side bar buggy with red running gear. A BUNCH OF PERIWINKLES.

One day he was riding on the same trait with her and heard her express a desire for a bunch of beautiful periwinkles that grew in beauty on the railroad right of way, regardless of and entirely oblivious to the interstate commerce bill.

The train only halted at that point for an instant in order that a man with a sledge hammer and a dash of tar on his nose might of way.

Mr. Randall was anxious to procure the entire group of periwinkles and so be delayed too long.

In jumping on the platform, hampered as he was by the bouquet, he missed his footing and also one of his legs. I will not go into detail, Rodney, for it would be useless and vain. Suffice it to say that his great sacrifice availed him raught.

The periwinkles for which he swapped his fair young leg on that bright and balary spring day have long since faded, and as Mr. Randall in the gloaning saily unbuckles his white oak leg and hangs it at the head of his lonely bed, he may be heard to ejaculate something in regard to the folly of striving to lean across a broad social chasin, to that of the party you refer to.

Your permanship is good. It is highly ornamental and reminds mo of a woven wire mattress. The red ink you use also enhances the effulgence of your chirography a good American Exhibition in London. The American exhibition that is to be opened in London on May 2, is seemingly a joint stock speculation that meets with the concurrence of neither the British nor the American governments. The chief attrac-tion of this exhibition will be the Buffalo Bill combination, including buffalo hunts, famous rifle shooting, prairie games and Indian war dances. The grounds occupy nearly twenty-three acres and with such accommodations the directors have been able to set aside nearly six acres for pleasure grounds. These will be elaborately laid out in graveled walks, and the flora will include all such American specinens as will stand the English climate. The music stand, pavilions for special exhibits, roller coasters and a model of the colebrated American Switchbach railway in Pennsyl vania will also be placed in the grounds.

The bars will be on the most elaborate scale, and the edibles will include famous canvas back duck, which feeds on celery and derives from that its unique and delicious flavor, diamond back tarrapin, turtle from he Gulf of Mexico, baked beans from Boston Bhad from the rivers and blue fish from the coast, pies from overywhere and griddle cakes from the same place. Virginia fried chicken with cream, California fruits of colos-sal size and little neck clams, and soft shell crabs from Long Island, while our best brands of wines will be adequately represented .-San Francisco Chronicle. A St. Petersburg institute for the higher education of women has been closed for fear that it will foster the spread of Nihilism. The proposed big Paris tower is to have a val. A much handsomer one is to be erected for the Brussels exhibition of 1888.

The usual treatment of catarrh is very unsatisfactory, as thousands of deeps:-ing patients can testify. On this point a trustworthy medical writer says: "Proper to the place where he died. Excitement in Texas.

Great excitement has been caused in the vicinity of Paria, Texas, by the re-markable discovery of Mr. J. E. Coriey, who was so helpless he could not turn in bed, or raise his head; everybody said be was dying of Consumption. A trial bot-tle of Dr. King's New Discovery was seent him. Finding relief, be bought a large bottle and a box of Dr. King's New Late Pills; by the time he had taken two boxes of Pills and two bottles of the Discovery, he was well and had gained in flesh thirty-six pounds. An Æsthetic Journalist.

A newspaper woman, connected with one of the largest Democratic duilies of the country, does all her work in a charming room, a sight of which ought to silence forever those people who declars that literary women have only one idea, and that goes upon paper This Democratic work shop is square in shape with two deep windows, between which stands on antique writing table in maleogany with polished brass trimmings; the desl with polished brass trimmings; the chair is also antique, with the seat upholstered in tapestry. On the opposite side of the room an antique "chest of drawers" with bruss trimming holds the trifles of the ward-robe, and over the top is thrown a scarf of bright China silk. A broad sofa of golden brown plush half covered by a large white bearskin, which fall over the arm and spread out upon the floor; before the mantel stands an odd chair, the seat a bit of painted velvet. upon which is tossed an opera but, fan and mass of soft white lace.

Longfellow, over the sofa a gleam of Italy from the brush of George L. Brown, while tiny bits of color flash from corners, where bric a brac abounds. Upon the floor, at the left of the desk, there is a pile of papers and magazines waiting for review; now books are placed in a tempting fashion above the mov-able book case, and the short silk curtains at the windows are pushed back to admit what light struggles into the narrow, aristocratic street.—American Art.

There are certain humorous sidewalk ob-servations that are open to one as a kind of compensation for having to allow and jostle along the public ways. One of these is the trick people have of looking at you with the left over remainders of the expression of face just bestowed upon the companion with whom they are walking and talking. A pair of persons engaged in lively argument are of persons engaged in lively argument to his reproaching you. One of them is laying down the law with great vigor of facial and muscular gesture. At the moment of rushing by he glances at you with the feroclous scowl of his fervid eloquence still puckering his features. You would think he was your bitterest foe. Of course it would have been opposed to be seen the law of expenses the control of the course the great law of economy of force to have relaxed and then puckered up again, just for the momentary meeting of another face. Perhaps his apparatus of facial expression is not agile enough to have accomplished the mancover if he tried.

They are entire strangers to you, but as you pass you receive a most captivating smile—from both of them this time, as it hap-pens, for both are talking at once. confirm it with few exceptions. Plant beds, in most of the states, are near home, for the rain of last Sunday freshened things up wonderfully.)

New York quotations abound in remarks about Sumatra which is just now ruling the market. The business of the week was quiet but steady. From all appearances there will be few booms during the summer and speculators will have little to do.

All are employed who has. Again we say, the people 'generally, regardless of political feeling, will regret the action of the mayor at this time, and will strive to induce him to reconsider his resignation and continue to administer the affairs of the city until the work just commenced under his management shall have been fully completed.

dearly wish that someone would as satisfactorily explain to me the growing stolidity and scriousness of the Italians as a people. Not very long ago these hot headed, warm ble ded southerners were the merriest of the merry andrews of Europe. From time immerorial Rome was the scene of many a feast and frolic; its streets often rang to the measured dance of Populus and Populus' sweetheart, and in its gorgeous palatial halls, lovely patrician dames and armored patrician dames and armored patrician gentlemen made the welkin ring with the music of their sandaled feet on the tesselate noise of their sandanestreet on the tessented floor. Perhaps the oldest of Roman carri-vals was that field in honor of the god Pan, during which the pagan priests used to doff their sacred vestments, and covering them-selves with the skins of the sacrificed goats would run in bacchant style through the city playfully whipping men and women with their thougs of office. Such amusements were called the Lapercalia games, and re-were called the Lappercain games, and re-mained in force till A. D. 518, when they were abolished by virtue of a mass of Amstasius. Then followed the Christian carmival, the history of which can be traced down without interruption to our own day. These feasts were of quite a grandiese character, not only here but throughout the entire penisula. Ales, however, for the mutability of all things human! The madeap orgies of Verona, the bacchandlan festivities of Gindecca, the Hower feres of Padun, and the good, old, soul stirring, magnificent carnivals of Rome, inmortalized by the genius of Salvator Rosa, The report was concurred in.

The claim of Peter Myers, asking the council to remit the penalties for the in all the parapherunia of silk and salin togas we can now see only monkeys in caps and ferkins. The Roman carnival is to-day almost a dead as the Olympian games. Its dances are the dances of death, and its high priests whisper into each other's cars what the Trap-pist meaks entimously mutter in their prayers taraugh the watches of the right: "Brother, thou must die!" The rigid monkey makin materialism of modern civilization has had much to do with the downfall of old King Carnival. People are not so eager to take part in a boat of buffoonery as they used to to when counting houses were still in their swaddling clothes. The aristocracy, moreover, has given over patronizing the street amusements. The scient of noble houses no longer condescend to rub their perfuned shifts against plebean rags or grasp the horny hands of labor in a merry go round on the public squares. We are, you see, becoming more and more exclusive in our manners and more and more eclectic in our tastes. So much for the age of progress and the ever increasing comforts it is supposed to bring with it in its train.—Rome Cor. San Francisco
